New Jersey Aviation Association Hosts Excellence in Aviation Luncheon

Arlene Feldman, President of the New Jersey Aviation Association, The New Jersey “Voice of Aviation” announced, today, that NJAA will honor longtime supporters of New Jersey’s multi-billion dollar general aviation industry.

The event will be held at the palatial TPC Jasna Polana golf and country club in Princeton, NJ on Wednesday Oct. 15, 2014 from 11:30 am to 2:30 p.m.

Among the awardees is Peter Joseph Weidhorn, owner and developer of Eagles Nest Airport, West Creek, New Jersey.

Mr. Weidhorn, a pilot and aircraft owner, has been vigorously engaged in the preservation and redevelopment of Eagles Nest Airport, with the goal of preserving the facility in “perpetuity” for General Aviation.

Mr. Weidhorn, fueled by his passion for aviation, has extended his philanthropic efforts to ensure that his airport would allow the greater community to benefit from the joys, knowledge, and opportunities that aviation provides.

Mr. Weidhorn faced many challenges. As a result of his efforts, the Eagles Nest Airport looks quite different from its earlier days. Today it has 36 hangars, a full service FBO, computerized flight planning and weather, along with a multitude of safety enhancements.

The resurrection of Eagles Nest is truly a “good news” story thanks to the efforts of Peter Weidhorn, the recipient of NJAA’s “Excellence in Aviation Award” for 2014.
